MARGERY LIEBER NAMED DEPUTY ASSOCIATE GENERAL COUNSEL IN THE NLRB'S DIVISION OF ENFORCEMENT LITIGATION

Arthur F. Rosenfeld, Acting General Counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, today announced the appointment of career NLRB attorney Margery E. Lieber, as Deputy Associate General Counsel, Division of Enforcement Litigation. In that capacity, which carries the rank of career Senior Executive, Ms. Lieber will serve as the principal deputy in the NLRB's Office of the General Counsel, Division of Enforcement Litigation. She will be in charge of the Division in the absence of the Division Chief.

The Division of Enforcement Litigation is responsible for the conduct of federal court litigation involving the enforcement and review of the orders of the NLRB. In addition, the Division is responsible for the conduct of litigation in federal and state courts to protect the processes and functions of both the Board and the General Counsel and to secure compliance with court orders remedying violations of the National Labor Relations Act. Finally, the Division is responsible for managing the General Counsel's discretionary review of decisions of Regional Directors not to issue unfair labor practice complaints. The Division is comprised of five offices: the Appellate Court Branch, the Contempt Litigation and Compliance Branch, the Special Litigation Branch, the Supreme Court Branch, and the Office of Appeals.

Commenting on the appointment, Acting General Counsel Rosenfeld stated:

Margery Lieber is well-deserving of this promotion. She has wide-ranging experience in managing complex federal court litigation and in designing policies and procedures that will enable the Board and the General Counsel effectively to carry out the Agency's mission. Her long and exemplary record of leadership has earned her the respect of her colleagues throughout the Agency.

Ms. Lieber began her NLRB career working in the Division of Enforcement Litigation, Appellate Court Branch, in 1972. In May 1976 she became the first full-time trial attorney in the newly restructured Special Litigation Branch. She was appointed Deputy Assistant General Counsel for the Branch in 1978. Since 1987, she has been the Assistant General Counsel in charge of the Special Litigation Branch.

A native of Brooklyn, New York, Ms. Lieber received a B.A. degree cum laude in economics from Brooklyn College in 1968, and a J.D. degree from the New York University School of Law in 1971. Ms. Lieber and her husband, Patrick Szymanski, reside in Arlington, Virginia. They have two children, Alyson and Matthew.
